Industry is the main pillar of the European economy. The manufacturing sector in the European Union accounts for 2 million enterprises and 33 million jobs. Facing the 4th industrial revolution - the intelligent networking of product development, production, logistics and customers - digital technologies for all industrial companies, especially SMEs, become more and more important.

The Technology Cooperation Days connect business and science in a focused event and aim to foster digitizing of the economy, its companies and research institutions. More than 400 participants registered for bilateral meetings to generate new international collaborations and research projects.

Welcome to the official opening of the 16th Technology Cooperation Days @ HANNOVER MESSE 2017!
